

The Black Tulip

A 100,000 guilders prize is offered to anyone who can grow a black tulip, setting off a frenzy of competition among gardeners desperate for the money and fame that will go along with it. Young Cornelius van Baerle stands an excellent chance to win until he is imprisoned. His incarceration results in Cornelius meeting Rosa, the daughter of a prison guard, who helps rescue him. The novel is set amidst the backdrop of a lynching in 1672 involving Johan de Witt, the Dutch Grand Pensionary, and his brother. The men were killed by a mob in one of the most intense eras in Dutch history. And the plot gradually unfolds to reveal links to the brothers'™ deaths. Publisher: Pearl Necklace Books
