 The Story of Taiwan Industrial Clusters (â...) According to the Global Competitiveness Report 2012-2013 published by the World Economic Forum, Taiwan ranked 13th in the State of Cluster Development index among 134 economies. Â Businesses in the clusters compete and cooperate with each other, stimulating a variety of supplier and service networks. Â Facilitated by the exchange of information and focused resources, business transaction and production costs are reduced and overall business efficiency is increased. Â As a result, industrial clusters are indispensable to Taiwanese business development. Under the threat of the global financial crisis since year 2009, the government and private enterprises share the common goal of strengthening businesses overall competitiveness and vitality. To familiarize enterprises with the competitive advantages shared by various industries and to attract foreign investment, the Taiwan External Trade Development Council (TAITRA) has conducted a series of market surveys on major industrial clusters in Taiwan, featuring their geographical distribution channels, regional resources and successful business models. Our staff writers visited selected companies in different industrial sectors for in-depth investigations and systematic studies. This book is divided into seven sections featuring important domestic industrial clusters: machine tools, plumbing hardware, hosiery, towels, orchids, eyeglasses and fasteners. More books about other industrial clusters will be coming in the near future.
