 and reincarnation for organic beings are claimed to be physically "impossible". The big-bang and the universe's origin is discussed, as is the implausibility of some God being involved with billions of living individuals at the same time. Writing is hopefully in a style, understandable to any reasonably intelligent person with secondary school education in physics, chemistry and basic maths. No graphs or diagrams are used. The author has a medical background and used to be a member of the Christian faith who later turned agnostic but remained an admirer of Jesus the man. He condemns the ease with Christian and Post-Christian western societies forgive violent criminals for trespasses against their fellows! According to the author demons like Satan, immortality for the souls of organic beings, reincarnation, resurrection from death and vengeful Gods are mere stone-age fables designed by desert nomads to maintain law and order amongst their followers.
