Personal coach, author and speaker Danielle specialises in helping clients going through painful breakups or trying to decide if they wish to stay together. She wrote After the Split after noting that there was no book on breakups of long relationships and how it affects people in midlife, despite the fact that this is the age group most affected by divorce (on the increase, but decreasing in all other age groups). The book is not about dating again; it is about surviving, recovering and moving on.
