

2015 Christmas Romance: Volume 2

A holiday collection of big-hearted romance stories to warm you this season. Christmas Ivy - Joanne Jaytanie Ivy™s always been a part of Christmas; can this Ivy put down roots in Forever Christmas, where the spirit of the holidays never fades? Ivy Harper is a survivor. Deprived of college by a selfish mother and stuck in a dead-end job that can't pay the bills, it's the last straw when she finds herself a crime victim, too. Hoping for a new start, she flees to the big city, only to end up homeless. Her one chance is an intern program that offers a new life on a farm outside a small town. But can a farm job provide Ivy's artistic soul the security and fulfillment she needs? Mason Weatherly is exhausted. A leading surgeon, ER doc, and specialist in internal medicine, Dr. Weatherly is in constant demand. Unfortunately his seventeen-hour days and long weeks mean he has no relationship or personal life. Frazzled and desperate for a break, Mason decides to visit his brother, Colton, before Colton settles down. Mason needs to discover for himself how a small town and a tree farm managed to tame his career-driven brother.

Color My Christmas - Natalie-Nicole Bates After an unfortunate incident, Dr. Timothy Martin's career as a surgeon is in tatters. Unable to cope with the changes in his life, his mother insists he visit Meggie Marie, a woman she says can perform miracles with her alternative therapy. Timothy is reluctant, but maybe Meggie is his last chance to heal. When he sees Meggie, he is intrigued by the eccentric woman with vibrant red hair, who wears tie-dye and flower headbands. When he gets to know her, she becomes something else to him – hope, joy, and maybe even love. But is Meggie for real, or is she simply providing him with her special brand of therapy? With Christmas just around the corner, has Timothy found his Christmas miracle, or is Meggie’s motive something darker waiting to be discovered?

The Last Thing She Needs is a Husband - Julie Kavanagh To save the family business, Katherine Collins must marry one of two men, both of whom are unsuitable and time is running out. Every girl dreams of a Christmas Eve wedding but when independent Katherine is faced with marriage to either her greedy second cousin or her sexy but bossy ex-boyfriend, she doesn’t know what to do. Katherine knows that marriage to either man would be a disaster, but her defiant heart says differently. Ross is still gorgeous and his smile is definitely still sexy, but their relationship went very wrong last time. Could they make it work this time or is Cousin Charles a better option for a lasting marriage? Can she trust her future to a man from her past?

One Order of Love - Jackie Marilla Sami Burke loves all things Christmas – the music, the children’s gift-drive, the parade, the program at her church, and the decorations. She especially loves the thought of winning the Christmas trophy for the Best Home Christmas Display in Mercy Ridge. This could be her year to win, if only she can come up with an idea better than Caroline Sauer, the reigning queen of yard decorations for three years running. Wayne, Caroline's husband, isn't sure how to handle himself when Caroline decides to go to Spokane for several days to shop for her display materials. He can't cook and ends up eating all his meals at Sami's diner. When he realizes he doesn't miss his wife as much as he probably should, he starts a journey of self-discovery and a second chance at love.
