

Secrets In Newshade

For decades, the tiny town of Newshade has hidden a secret that has cost a teacher his job, his future, and has torn a family apart. Now, Alex and Solana, two high school seniors, uncover the secrets that have plagued this town for so long. In the process, they are forced to deal with school bullies, racism, and the truth that Alex's mother is battling cancer. Through it all, they come to realize that they can rely on each other, and friendship turns to love. While trying to complete their final assignment before graduation, Alex Tripp and Solana Hernandez interview the man the town considers to be a loner, a recluse. Although reluctant, the man agrees to talk to them, but as the story unfolds, they begin to wonder if he is telling the truth. How can a whole town be wrong? Did this former teacher really do the things he was accused of? Is there a deeper story that needs to come out? As they try to unravel the mystery, Alex and Solana are forced to deal with bullies, racism, and the fact that Alex's mother has cancer. Even more problems arise as the story unfolds leaving the two wondering if this is all worth it. The twists and turns the story takes will leave you guessing to the very end.
