1) The Peninsula Campaign June 95 - Marty the IT techie suddenly realizes that his life is in REAL danger when an original 76er (literally) just appears as a cocktail waitress in a Mountain View bar to prevent a hell bent stalker from ruining the day. And his life. A week or so later he realizes “ while motorcycles roar incessantly and intentionally just outside his window for an entire day - that he MUST stay in town just to see it through. Because its all supposed to happen “ the entire unearthly drama being of the preordained kind. And the fact that one of the original 76er personages felt compelled to appear just to help deflect modern day misplaced Americano melting pot indignation was “ acutely intriguing. A few evenings later to his utter bewilderment he suddenly finds himself in an unexpected all night long solitary death struggle with the actual Netherworlds themselves! They suddenly just showed up! And he realizes afterward “ after surviving - that the entire horrifying infernal visitation was not only a significant event but that it was also filmed! So theres hard copy! And then a week later the harrowing Netherworlds show up and haunt him again for the entire length of a day as he travels by rail to the city and back. Only this time theyre seeking closure! Somehow surviving this latest incursion he returns to his room in late afternoon and after breathing a sigh realizes that it is now time to get out of the entire state. And fast! And just before boarding a train for Seattle the next morning he is shown in the Eastern sky the Divine help that had been watching over him the entire time. He spends the next week or so in Seattle pondering the significance of the religiously significant event and wondering who they were who now had the hard copy proof of it all and would they ever let it surface and let the world see it for themselves? Or would they just punt? 2) Several stories of Divinely astonishing interventions and timely communiques. 3) Three more TRUE stories: sorcery, an epiphany, and the Devil himself!
