

My Tax Tutor for eBay Sellers: What every eBay seller should know about their taxes.

This book was written to help people who sell products on eBay save on their taxes. All eBay sellers in the United States are required to file a tax return and report their sales and expenses to the IRS. Even if it is just a hobby, sellers are still required to pay taxes and may be in an even worse situation than if they were running a true business. Discover how to run your auction activities like a business and take advantage of the many write-offs available to you as a small business owner. It is possible to easily save over $2,000 a year in income taxes and the rules are simple once you know them. This book will help you get your auction business up and running with good record keeping in place and explain each and every deduction you are entitled to in easy to understand plain English.
