

God, the inaccessible: (Science dismantles Religion)

Science cannot disprove the existence of a God, nor prove that a God exists. But, by a critical analysis, Science can dismantle, disassemble, proclamations of truth of any scriptural religion. Religion is locked up in a straitjacket so restricting that it has created the elements of its own destruction. This book analyses all of these elements one by one, and leaves religion completely dismantled and without any hope of ever finding a valid argument to maintain its proclamations of truth. The conclusion of a series of systematic analyses is that the God of scriptural religions is completely inaccessible. This leaves Religion without authority, authenticity or value with respect to the study of a god, any god.
