

Tales of a Silver-Haired Volunteer: Going Far and Giving Back

What color shirt should you wear on Fridays in Thailand? Which three Americans are the only ones Senegalese boys ever heard of, all with the same first name? What's so special about the families living in the Bwindi Impenetrable Forest in Uganda? What country has "Watch out for warthogs!" traffic signs? What's the most precious thing received by a Ghanaian sex worker learning to protect herself from HIV? Carole Howard was practically allergic to risk-taking, but she took a deep breath and jumped off the cliff with her husband after they retired. With little idea of what to expect, they went on a two-month volunteer assignment as management consultants for a non-profit in Senegal. It was enriching, thrilling, life-affirming. So they did it again the following year, in Uganda. And three more times after that. It was like taking simultaneous crash courses in the world, in themselves, and in each other. Meaningful work and a lot of fun.....is there a better combination? She now knows the answers to the questions she posed above..... and a whole lot more.
