

Water Storage and Sanitation Needs: Prepping for emergencies

Drinking water is the most important thing you do for yourself. Water is very essential to one's health. The simple truth is that dehydration can cause diseases and death. The prevention and treatment of dehydration produced diseases is water intake on a regular basis. The body will stop working if liquid intake stops and lasts more than three days. There is nothing more important to our health than water. Therefore, it is important to store water for emergencies.
