

Our Need For Religion

For more than sixty years John Tomikel has wrestled with such questions as, Is there a God? Is Jesus Divine? Where does religion fit into our daily lives? Why do more than half the worlds people believe in a Supreme Being that can influence our present and future? His conclusion is that religious belief is another aspect of survival and we have been programmed to religion through evolution. In this work the author presents the history of religious thinking and the benefits of that thinking to society.
