

Strategic Destination: Vision, Mission, and Values

Constantly businesses and people wonder: Which path should we take? Which way should we take in our strategy, our products, our services, or even our life if we are talking about people? The reality is that, in order to answer these questions, we need to ask ourselves where do we want to go (Vision), who are we (Mission), and what are our beliefs (Values).

This document will help us establish some basic parameters to answer these questions within our company. It includes a simple and tested methodology to define during one working session a first version of the answers to these questions; a first version of our vision, mission, and corporate values.
